

Saha

I am Saha and I play different roles in the fields of hypnotherapy, energy healing, brand strategy and culinary innovation. Though these roles may seem distinct, they are energetically and creatively connected to my commitment to fostering balance, healing and transformation in all areas of life.

QHHT

*Find peace in the present
by healing the past.*

As a Quantum Healing Hypnosis Technique™ (QHHT) practitioner, I guide individuals to find peace in the present by healing the past. Developed by Dolores Cannon, QHHT combines hypnosis with quantum theory to access the subconscious.

Under hypnosis, I help you tap into your innate ability to heal, recognizing that within the quantum field, anything is possible. Every illness, disease, condition, or syndrome thought to be "untreatable" or "incurable" can be healed, as the root cause is psychosomatic. The term "quantum" in QHHT signifies that our consciousness operates at a quantum level, allowing our minds to access information beyond physical reality.

My role as an instrument/catalyst is to help you connect with this quantum field, where the magnificence of pure consciousness facilitates all healing. There is no dependency and all it takes is just one session to heal any disease, eliminate limiting beliefs, mend relationships, break patterns, transmute trauma, gain insights, discover soul purpose and unleash unparalleled transformations.

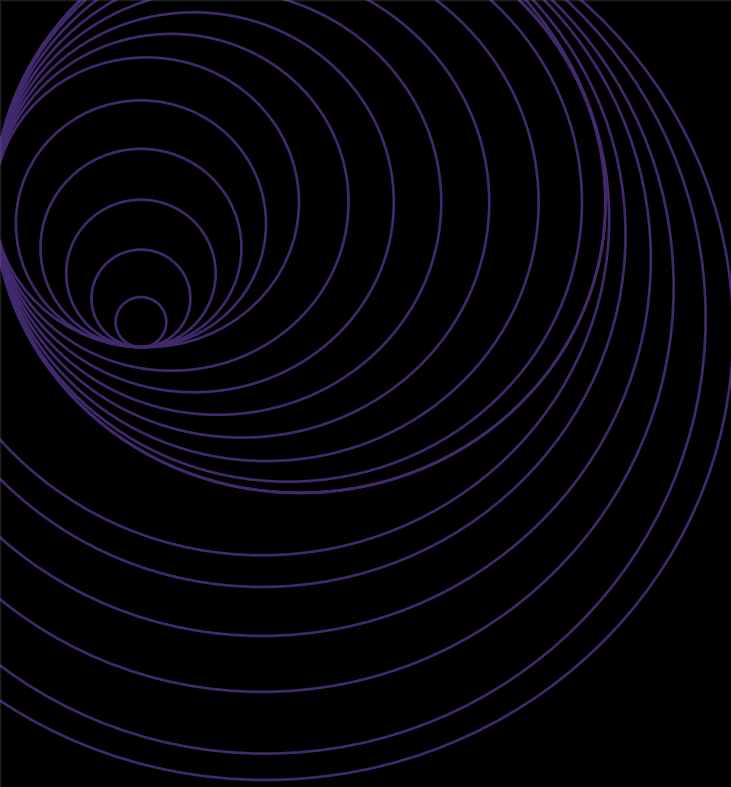

RECONNECTIVE HEALING

*Everything is energy; vibrating

In addition to QHHT, I am a practitioner of Reconnective Healing™, which was serendipitously discovered by Dr. Eric Pearl in 1993. Reconnective Healing is a return to an optimal state of balance through interaction with a comprehensive spectrum of frequencies-energy, light, and information.

This approach transcends traditional energy healing techniques by moving beyond the concept of technique itself. It is neither a therapy nor a treatment and does not focus on symptoms. Instead, Reconnective Healing involves interacting with these frequencies to bring about healings that are often instantaneous and lifelong. Sessions can be done in person or as remote sessions without any limitations or restrictions by distance or time.

Scientific studies show that when Reconnective Healing frequencies entrain with our energy body, we emit and vibrate at higher levels of light, restructuring our DNA and increasing bio-photon light levels. This process introduces coherence and order, resulting in greater harmony and balance within us.

BRAND STRATEGIST

Branding is an investment and not investing in branding is a cost.

As a brand strategist, I craft the process of branding by strategically analyzing the brandability of each project. While some call it brand strategy, I call my work strategic branding, because everything I bring forth for a brand comes from brand-led strategic thinking.

Combining psychological insights gained from my experience in QHHT, I offer a unique value proposition to my clients. I blend strategy and creativity with the knowledge of semiotics and the power of subliminals. By aligning strategy, creativity and psychology, brands can meaningfully relate to their customers, establish desired emotional connections and inspire behavior that drives profitability.

In every project, I tell what a company needs to hear and not what they like to hear, so that they can realize the highest and greatest potential of their brand. I only work with clients, who are ready, willing and able to recognize branding as a vital investment rather than a mere expense.

SELF-TAUGHT CHEF

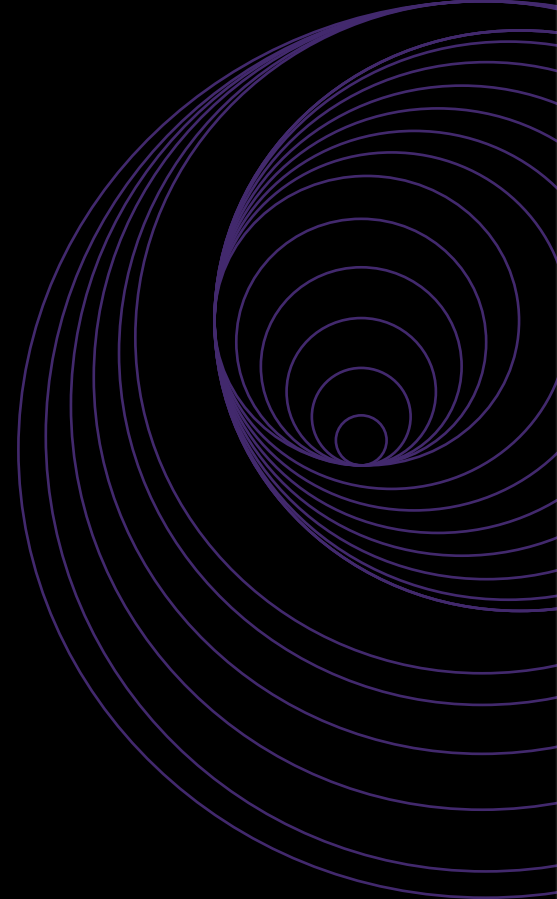

The most important ingredient is love.

My interest in cooking began around the age of 6. Since baking pizza in the oven was deemed too risky by my parents, they allowed me to make grilled cheese sandwiches instead. That moment marked the beginning of my culinary journey. What started as a hobby evolved into a passion, then an infatuation, and eventually became a relaxing form of creative expression and now a consulting opportunity.

As I delved deeper into the quantum realities of non-physical and invisible realms and integrated the insights gained from QHHT sessions, my awareness of our interconnectedness with the natural world heightened. I found myself naturally letting go of ideas, beliefs, and practices I once held as truth.

The most natural and joyful transformation was embracing a plant-based diet. This shift enabled a vibrational shift in me to directly experience the impact of food on our thoughts and how our thoughts influence our food choices. I could feel the truth of this closed-loop system because phytochemical quercetin, found exclusively in plant foods acts as an MAO inhibitor. Quercetin works similarly to a natural antidepressant and enhances the levels of serotonin, dopamine, and norepinephrine in the brain.

My passion for plant-based cooking has opened doors for exciting consulting opportunities in assisting restaurants and cafes to reinvent themselves, offer more inclusive choices and meet the rising demand for plant-based options.
